

Patton Aero – RHVAC 2011 Exhibition.

Patton Aero recently participated at the RHVAC exhibition, which was held at the Impact Exhibition centre in Bangkok from 12th to 16th October 2011 in conjunction with the Bangkok Electric & Electronics exhibition.

The bi-annual event was organised by the Thailand Department of Export Promotions and showcased products from 190 refrigeration & air-conditioning exhibitors and 35 E & E exhibitors.

It was the second participation at this event for Patton Aero and with an 18m² booth they displayed their full range of commercial refrigeration equipment, which included “Unit Coolers/Evaporators”, “Air-Cooled Condensing Units” and “Air-Cooled Condensers”.

Additional to having the standard range on show some new products were introduced at the exhibition. Two being new unit coolers, namely the “A Series” angled low profile units which are ideally suited for convenience stores and the “R Series” standard coolers for larger commercial cool rooms where high air flow and long throw are required.

Also launched was the ‘CZB Slimline’ packaged condensing units. With great aesthetics and ranging from 2.0 to 7.0Hp with “Copeland” scroll compressors, the new ‘Slimline’ units suit small to medium cool store applications and are an ideal design for inner city fast food, convenience type store and gas stations where available installation space is often at a premium.

While many visitors were impressed by the professional displays and product on show the turnout was somewhat low due to the flooding crisis in Bangkok at the time. Unfortunately the difficulties surrounding the city created some fear around accommodation availability, as well as access to and from the exhibition, and this forced many local and overseas visitors to cut short their visits or to not attend at all.

Despite all this Patton Aero did host many visitors & business partners from the US, Europe & the ASEAN regions, with Mr Sameer Handa (CEO) and Mr Andrew Sekula (Engineering Manager) from Patton New Zealand and Mr Vikram Singh (Snr Sales Manager) from Patton Refrigeration India in attendance.
